

MILITARISTS THREATEN BERLIN RULE

SUPPRESSION OF SPARTACAN OUTBREAK HAS SHOWN NEW REACTION SAY DISPATCHES.

EBERT MERE PUPPET

Officials Allow Army Castle to Reappear as Organizers; These Men Hold Real Power, Declares Correspondent.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, March 17.—Dispatches from Berlin report that the suppression of the Spartacan outbreak has shown a military and monarchist reaction is growing and overshadowing the new government.

The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times arrived in London, having left Berlin March 14. He reiterates the statements made in his dispatch of February 27 that President Ebert, Chancellor Scheidemann, and Minister of War Noske are merely puppets. He declares that for the purpose of retaining power they have allowed members of the military caste to reappear as organizers of the new republican armies.

Militarists Make Orders.

"These men are the real governors of Germany," he says. "They make the edicts and Chancellor Scheidemann and his colleagues willingly sign them."

Similar testimony is given by other correspondents in telegraphing from Berlin, some stating that the capture of the suburb of Lichterfelde has been intentionally prolonged in order to extenuating the Spartacists, whose treatment at the hands of government troops is said to be sharply condemned.

Activities Exaggerated.

While alleged atrocities are attributed to the Spartacists, details which have been given are doubted or denied. Even the reporters admit them to be much exaggerated.

The correspondents concur in the statement that extreme bitterness has been created against the government troops and that further trouble is inevitable.

According to a dispatch to the Mail, the Spartacus revolt will recur in ever-increasing force unless a miracle happens. It adds that Herr Noske's forces have been encircled by rebels and are on the brink of starvation and that to this may be attributed some of the food shortage in Berlin.

In the Mud up to the Hub!

The Rock county concrete roads campaign has gone into mud up to the hub. Four meetings scheduled for Saturday night last, to discuss how to get out of the mud, and stay out, were called off because citizens were unable to reach the designated meeting places. These were Cen. Johnston, Lima and Footville.

Prof. Lowther was assigned to speak at Center. He managed to navigate five miles and then had to turn back owing to the impassable condition of the roads in that neighborhood.

A meeting was to have been held at Magnolia today but speakers will not be able to reach that.

Discussed at Clinton.

A full seated meeting was held at Clinton. Robert Cunningham presented the leading argument, and discussion followed by George E. Woodruff, president of the Rock County Good Roads Association. Mrs. Mayhew of Clinton, and Dr. Anderson of Borgess, the latter taking the negative side of the proposition in a fair-open-minded manner. Mr. Woodruff and Mr. Mayhew spoke in favor of the bond issue.

Those who attended the meeting appeared to agree decidedly upon one fact, that it is time to quit wasting county funds on gravel roads and that concrete is the only type of road surface to consider from the standpoint of durability and economy. The only points of difference centered upon the details of the bond proposition and the feeling of some citizens who are located on the main roads that they would not receive sufficient benefit to warrant a vote in favor on their part.

Holding to Main Point.

In reply to the minor objections from a financial standpoint as between gravel and concrete, the good roads campaign managers are holding steadily to the point that experience in the expenditure of county highway funds has established the fact beyond all doubt that the maintenance of gravel roads for the next twenty years—the period provided for the redemption of the proposed bonds—will exceed the cost of concrete roads, and that therefore the only wise thing to do is to profit by the experience of laying a mainline gravel by building roads that will endure practically no maintenance and thereby make possible the redemption of bonds—principle and interest—from the accumulation of funds that will otherwise be wasted on gravel.

This principle is the foundation of the campaign for roads that will permit unimpeded traffic even in such extremely wet weather as that which now prevails in Rock county.

Replying to Opposition.

To the man off the main road who feels that he will receive no direct benefit, the point is being made that there must be main routes, that there is no way to escape this fact, and that only by permanent construction on main routes can time and funds become available for maintenance or feeder or secondary roads.

The point is also being made, with some degree of success, that those who are inclined to oppose the bond issue because their property will not be located upon the route to be paved are really opposing their own financial interests, since it would not be sound economy for the citizens of Rock county to build a rigid roadbed where traffic is not, heavy and where a high type of construction will meet all needs, since more time will be available for keeping the lighter and less traveled types of road in good condition.

Spirit of Fairness Prevails.

The campaign of education along lines is well under way and the leaders of the movement for a sound financial policy in future road building report that a spirit of fairness prevails throughout the discussion. Those who are inclined to oppose simply want to have all the facts placed before them.

Commissioner Moore addressed the Milk Producers association at Janesville Monday afternoon, in support of concrete roads and the necessity of a change from a wasteful to more profitable methods of road construction.

STATE LEGISLATURE IS WEEKS AHEAD OF ITS USUAL SCHEDULE

(By FRED L. HOLMES)

Madison, March 17.—There are many indications that the work of the Wisconsin legislature will be concluded two months ahead of the schedule for several years past. The session two years ago adjourned July 16, and the 1915 session was the longest in the history of the state. At the rate the legislature has been moving in the past two weeks there is a possibility of adjournment in May, surely by June 1.

For the first time in 20 years the two big financial bills of the session, appropriations for the normal and university, have been reported to the House of Representatives in March. The third large measure, carrying appropriations for the charitable and penal institutions, will be reported into the House the latter part of this week.

The university appropriation bill carries an aggregate of $5,962,961 for the biennium will be considered in the senate Wednesday. The assembly will on the same day consider the normal school bill which an aggregate for the biennium of $2,266,955.

There will be an additional bill which will carry some additional capital requirements for the state normal schools. This will be decided later by the finance committee.

The increase at the university for the biennium is $12,000 and of this sum $22,000 increase is for county agricultural representatives and $30,000 to equal the infirmary.

The special committee of the legislature which has been investigating the charitable and penal institutions will be asked to make its report to the finance committee by the end of the present week. There will be some increase in the charitable and penal institutions over the past biennium.

While there are a multitude of hearings scheduled in the legislature this week, no large measure will be under consideration.

The committees on markets were at work attempting to get bills together which will be workable. This may require two or three weeks time. There is still pending a number of bills relating to reconstruction, but most of these will be out on the floor within a short time.

The one big measure that is left for consideration is the liquor measure. Two bills have been offered. One by Assemblyman Frank B. Metcalfe would permit the manufacture of 2 percent beer in the state. The second is the Bennett bill for the appointment of a prohibition commissioner with $25,000 at his disposal for the enforcement of the dry laws. That these bills have a rocky road ahead is evident.

He felt that it was the business of the church to teach the message of Jesus Christ, to preach it and to live it individually and "in that way find that supreme joy in religion which made it worth while."

He defined the great mission of the church at the present time to be the elimination of differences, and the harmonizing of different claims.

"All branches of church work," he said, "could come together along these lines and do definite work in the community if they followed the precepts of the master."

REAL AID.

Janesville is fortunate in having a live organization of business men able and willing to step into almost any breach when the occasion demands, and give aid when aid is most needed. We refer to the Chamber of Commerce.

With the announcement last week
that many of the government employment bureaus would have to close because congress had failed to pass legislation providing for funds to maintain them, the Chamber of Commerce immediately offered space in its quarters and any assistance necessary for carrying on a work which has assumed great importance, not only in this immediate community,
but in this section of the state.

Because of Janesville's location in relation to Camp Grant, one of the largest army demobilization camps in the country, many hundreds of discharged soldiers have applied at the local employment office for work. A large percentage has been given help in procuring jobs. Many more will look to Janesville as the first place where work may be obtained as soon as Uncle Sam has no further use for their services.

Mr. Schmitt has done excellent work as superintendent of the local bureau and he should be retained as long as there is need for this work,
but if the government does not see fit to provide funds there is little doubt but that his work will end within a few weeks.

Effect of having an organization
like the Chamber of Commerce, vigorous and alive to the situations
which confront a city like Janesville,
is not only appreciated in our midst, but attention of the outside world is directed to Janesville as an enterprising, wide-awake municipality.

Although the Chamber of Commerce has been in existence but a few short months, it has made good in being the vanguard of every movement which is good for the city.

OUR OPPORTUNITY.

Two weeks from tomorrow we will vote upon the school bond issue.
When the ballots are counted Janesville will know whether we will have a new high school. An analysis of the vote will give a line on what we may expect in the future. Whether we will take advantage of the big opportunities knocking at our door can be visualized by our action in this matter.

Voting for bonds with which to purchase a site for the proposed high school is the first big step we have to take. There should be no hesitancy.
A new high school, as soon as it can be built, is positively necessary. With present quarters so cramped that all sorts of housing schemes are resorted to in order to cram the pupils into places where they can study and recite, and families arriving daily to take up their abode here, and more ready to come as soon as Janesville says,
"Ready," no one can argue that sufficient action is not necessary.

The vote will be on the question of whether $50,000 may be authorized for the purchase of a site. The site has been chosen and approved by the school boards and the various committees appointed to make recommendations.

It is up to the people who know our educational needs to poll every vote possible. Women who have the interest of their children at heart are going to be a big factor in the election for they can cast their votes on the question.

ANOTHER WILSON CHOICE.

Our former fellow citizen, Joe Davies, who was presented to the voters of the state in the last election, as President Wilson's choice for senator, has been "invited" by Judge Landis of the United States court at Chicago, to explain what services he expected to give the Consumers' Packing company in exchange for the $7,500 fee he took for appearing before the capital issues committee, the wartime securities board.

When Joe made his campaign in Wisconsin, having been sent out by President Wilson, after being relieved of his duties as head of the federal trade board, he was hailed by the democrats as the only savior of the people and perhaps the only living democrat in Wisconsin who could properly fill the senatorial terra.

Davies wanted $15,000 for reopening the cases of the Consumers' company before the capital issues board according to witnesses, but finally accepted $7,500, it is said.

It may be presumed that Judge Landis, who is of a most inquiring turn of mind, would like to know just what influence Joe had with the board.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE.

Four good roads meetings were postponed, Saturday, because the highways leading from Janesville to the communities in which they were to be held were impassable. It was impossible for automobiles to get through the mud.

Further comment is perhaps unnecessary. But the fact that rural traffic was practically at a standstill
on Saturday, the one day of the week
when farmers desire to get to town and merchants plan a big sales day, is a mighty good argument for highways which can be utilized at all seasons of the year.

From the merchants' standpoint,
business was in a measure curtailed

because the men and women in the country could not get to town. From the farmers' standpoint, he was forced to suffer inconvenience because he could not reach his trading place at a time he desired.

With our present roads, this situation will not get any better. When traffic becomes heavier, highways will become worse. The only thing that can be done will be to repair these roads at great expense with the knowledge that in a year or two the same work will have to be done again.

If concrete roads are started this year, the first big step in saving repair bills will be taken. While the bonds are being liquidated, concrete roads can be used.

The Chamber of Commerce at Pond du Lac has started a campaign to make that city beautiful by encouraging the raising of flowers. The ever-blooming snowbell hydrangea has been chosen as the variety which will be conspicuous this year. Janesville, by planting more flower seeds this year, can add to its beauty. The Women's Federation will perhaps be glad to start a movement here.

English manufacturers are planning a motor car to rival Henry Ford's new pet, which will be sold for a price around $250. The Britishers plan to make their flavor out of slag, cinder, sawdust and soot. Hot air, perhaps, will be an important part of the make-up.

Mexicans are glad that they were able to remain neutral until the armistice was signed. They can further add to their joy and comfort if they will put Villa in a place where he cannot commit any more depredations.

Now that the income tax returns for individuals have been made, we can turn our attention to the problem of getting together enough money to buy our Easter scenery.

THE YOUTHFUL DAY.

There's nothing old about a day:
It's always new and fresh and bright. Each morning takes a different way Until the sable realm of night.
Sometimes the sun withdraws his face. Sometimes the fields are splashed with rain. Sometimes as children we may race, Or join with men and strive for gain.

This day perchance a friend we find,
Tomorrow may a friend depart.
The next may bring us peace of mind
Or else the tears of grief may start.
One day we touch the hem of fame,
The next we weince beneath failure's
sighs.

Nor shall tomorrow be the same—
For something new each morning
brings.

The day is never old and gray,
Nor like the ones which went before;

What it will bring no man can say
Until its round is o'er.

One day we're young, who're we,
Destitute of care and sorrow
stings.

Who waits with eagerness to see
The changes that each morning
brings.

OUR PARIS ARTICLE
(By Our Own Staff Correspondent
at the Peace Conference)

Paris, March 16 (UPI)—Trotzky has sent word that he will not send a delegation to the peace conference. Ever since he doesn't care for any.

The prime minister of Dahomey, accompanied by a relative, has arrived here and will attend the peace conference. He was given a seat on the roof, where he can enjoy the scenery of Versailles, and if the conference has anything for him it will send it up by a bell-hop.

I gleaned some very important facts today as to the progress of the conference, said facts being as follows:

David Lloyd George is here from England. He wears his hair long and is fond of mouse-colored weskits.
Thus the news is accumulating rapidly.

It is confidently expected that the peace conference will end its session in time for the delegates to eat their Christmas dinner somewhere, either at home or in Paris.

The delegates from Albania arrived yesterday and left again last night,
having received a telegram to the effect that they no longer had any country to represent. The Chinese delegation is on hand to see that the boundary lines are not made any smaller by the conference. They maintain that every time something happens in the world somebody slips a pen off from China. This has been going on for centuries and China is so small that it now takes only eight weeks to cross it in a fast train.

IRISH SOUND NOTE OF SELF-DETERMINATION

An excellent St. Patrick's day entertainment presented by the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the women's auxiliary at the Myers theater last night drew a packed house. John J. Regan, St. Paul, former national president of the A. O. H. introduced the address of the evening, taking for his subject, "Ireland's Opportunity to Win Self-Determination." W. H. Dougherty presided and introduced Mr. Regan and others on the program.

The entertainment was opened by a patriotic band showing "Liberty Leading Ireland to the throne of Justice." On either side of the throne stood an American soldier and sailor. Those who took part in the tableau were the Misses Stella Cullen, Mary Connors and Mary Gosselin and William Ryan and Leo O'Brien. Union pipes was one of the features of the evening with his pipes. In addition to the opening musical number he furnished the inspiration for the dances.

Thomas Cunningham, Thomas Rehan, William Hassett, Edward McNamara, Cormac McCormick, Bernard McNamee and Mary Cunningham, under the direction of John E. McNamee gave some clever dances.

Dennis McCarthy, Beloit, favored the audience with several vocal selections, among them being, "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "My Wild Irish Rose," which won hearty applause.

Miss Josephine Fitzgerald scored a hit with her recitation entitled "Cathy Taking the Census." She responded with an encore. A selected song by Miss Elizabeth Carroll, Beloit, and vocal selection by Miss Iris Heffernan, this city, both from the famous singing school prolonged applause. Robert Stevens scored with his song, "Come Back to Erin."

Mr. Regan in his address told of the optimism felt by Ireland in her fight for self determination. He discussed the inconsistent attitude taken by England as Ireland is as well as other nations in regarding self determination, although the peace conference is willing to grant that consideration to other nations, not as worthy.

He urged every American to wield every influence to aid Ireland in her fight, because, he said, Ireland is fighting for the same principles that the United States fought for in 1776.

JANESEVILLE MAN PUTS SPEED IN SHIP BUILDING

When the great steel cargo ship, Gunston Hall, was launched at Alexandria on the Potomac river recently it called attention to the part played in the construction by J. H. Snyder, 1303 Hamilton avenue, this city. When work was begun at the Virginia ship building yards over a year ago bids were called for 28 cranes with a capacity of from 3,000 to 5,000 pounds each. These cranes were needed to handle the great steel sheets that went to make up the great hulls.

Mr. Snyder sent in his bid and was later awarded the contract for the entire lot of cranes. Immediately upon the acceptance of his bid he went to Alexandria, Va., as it was necessary to begin operations in less than a week. To the amazement of the ship-building corporation he gathered the necessary material to build the cranes and installed them on time without delaying the ship construction.

He continued with his work, building in all a total of 46 cranes and installed them in the yards. He received congratulations from the officials of the corporation for his good work.

Mr. Snyder was asked frequently how he obtained his material when it was difficult for the corporation to get anything on account of freight connection. "It's my secret," Mr. Snyder would tell them. Whenever I needed material promptly I hired a motor truck and sent two men along with it to Washington for a list of the material we wanted, with orders if they could not get it there to go to Baltimore and did not get it I told them not to come back without it. In this way we obtained great results."

The Virginia ship building corporation later adopted this system to a great extent and speeded up work.

This corporation has contracts on government account for 12 steel cargo carriers of the same size and type as the Gunston Hall. The yard is built for permanent use. In the building of the Gunston Hall a new record was established for speed.

Inventions of War Are Discussed at Club Meeting

Inventions of the war were discussed by Mrs. J. A. Craig in an interesting paper given at a meeting of the Philanthropic club Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. A. Tait, Clark street. She said that inventions of all kinds were made during the period of the war, by three departments, namely the munitions, the admiralty, and the trench committee. All of these were eagerly seeking for anything suitable which could be utilized for warfare. In the line of naval novelties she mentioned improved armor for ships, a gyro compass, and devices for salvaging sunken ships. Concrete freight cars were noted as being of serviceable construction, and a combination pick and shovel as a possibility of value in trench warfare. The delicate mechanism of the great gun with which Paris was bombarded was described, and the many variations of wind and air conditions and other things to be taken into account, were noted.

Mrs. Fred Koebelin read an article from the American magazine entitled "How About Walking on Yourself," which described the San Help stores, and Mrs. Venick read a book review on a humorous article on operation by Irvin Cobb.

After the program the hostess served supper. The next meeting is with Mrs. J. A. Craig.

A reciprocity meeting is planned for April 12 and Mrs. Murdoch and Mrs. Abby Helms were appointed to arrange for a program.

AWOMAN'S BUSINESS

BY JOE BECKLEY

ROY SEEKS LIGHT.
More in self-defense than in obedience to Roy's suggestion that they go out into the fog and explore. Janet straightened her desk and got into her hat and coat. She knew Roy must have sensed her momentary confusion. She again felt slightly embarrassed by herself. I have a big income and work that I love. But what has he? Nothing, Roy, not even a home? For I'm neglecting it horribly. I'm selfish and I'm—I'm miserable on account of—

"On account of a man who isn't willing to make a picayune sacrifice in order to rid you of a burden," finished Roy, with the first outburst of temper he had used toward Janet Stedman wanted was for Nicoll to know that she was disturbed about his attitude toward her. Yet she somehow knew that he knew. Womankind, she sought opportunity to deny it. Her chance came with Nicoll's first question.

"Why don't you tell me what's worrying you?" he asked in his kindest, most dangerously intimate tone.

"What did you mean when you looked out into the fog and said,

I could only see my way through?"

"Won't you let me guide you through?"

"No—I don't understand."

"Oh, you don't understand; Roy!" He's a writer and principles mean so much to a writer. He's willing to sacrifice a lot, but to have changed that serial story the way you did, it would have been against his beliefs, his ideals, his whole time of writing.

"Well, I'll give you the truth," grunted Roy. "No—I don't understand."

They had turned in Washington square and were walking along its southern edge, past the old brick house in which many artists and scribblers make their studio homes. Janet, engrossed in her own affairs, which seemed to grow more complicated every minute, was staring ahead into the fog and mist. She did not see the boy and woman who were coming arm in arm along one of the curving paths of the park. They, too, seemed engrossed, not even unlocking their arms as they climbed the steps of one of the picturesque houses.

Roy's sentence, "No—I don't understand—" broke off at the moment he saw the couple and recognized the man as Walt Stedman. The woman he did not know. But an illuminating light had pierced the gloom of Nicoll's hopes.

"Perhaps," he said, with a queer laugh, "it is you who don't understand. Who's the pretty dame with your husband, Janet?"

Janet looked about, startled.

She located Walt and Lucy just as the latter opened the door with a latchkey.

"That's Lucy Benton, an old friend of Walt's. Of mine, too. Lucy and Walt are doing a book together. She's an illustrator. That's where she lives."

Nicoll was thinking and did not reply.

Already he had made his plans.

Nicoll had counted upon Janet's physically distressed state of mind to make her responsive to seriousness, tenderness even. He was ready to be the strong oak; if only she would be the clinging vine. But Janet took refuge in forced lightness of manner.

"As if I hadn't a million things to worry me!" she answered. "The Better Babies Contest is fairly snowing under with prize entries. All the Miss Ryerson throngs to the Advice to Business Girls columns if she isn't featured in the—

"Oh, a plague on Miss Ryerson and the babies!" cried Nicoll, taking Janet's hand affectionately to help her through the crowd as they had agreed to walk as far as Washington Square for exercise. "Conie Janet, be honest. Don't you trust me, child? Don't you believe in me?" His voice and the slight, warm pressure he seemed to give her arm as it rested against him warned Janet that he was not this time to be easily diverted. "Don't you, Janet?" he repeated sharply.

"Yes," she said quickly. And flancing up to his face she saw in the look which wore on his eyes that he was about to close in on some scheme that had long hung fire. Janet recalled a small merchant she had once seen in Nicoll's office upon whom Nicoll was bending that expression. The next day Nicoll owned the small merchant's business—lock, stock and barrel.

Distinctive Suit For Young Miss*SIDE TALKS—BY—RUTH CAMERONSPENDING FIVE LIVES.

What a lot of fascinating things there are to do in the world! Of course, I know I couldn't possibly do it, but it certainly would be fascinating to try.

In my fourth life, I think I would go into a department store, first to try to master the great art of salesmanship, and then via that route, with all the delight into the customer's family and friends. It would certainly give, try to find a niche as a writer of advertising copy, and a planner of advertising campaigns.

Just a thought of thought for You.

That left me one more life, and when I started to spend it I discovered what a crazy person I was, for I was still left with three unsatisfied ambitions. I won't bore you with them, for I think you have heard quite enough. Of course, I have only touched upon these very personal interests on the chance that I might thereby put you upon an interesting train of thought.

One thing I request. That no letter friend will proffer (as several personal friends already have) the doctrine of reincarnation as a guarantee of success with it. I only want to do these things, but I want to know it is I who am doing them, and to carry the richness of experience I should gather. What is the use of being re-born if you don't know it?

It seems to me it might just as well be someone else as you, if you don't know it.

A Nurse or a Doctor?

Next, I'd like to spend one life, as either a nurse or a doctor,—haven't quite made up my mind which.

And then—don't laugh—but I have

Brush casserole with butter, put half the bananas in bottom, cover with bread-crumb, add raisins and orange peel (add salt to raisins); put the rest of the bananas on top and sprinkle with sugar. Cover, put in oven 20 minutes, reduce the heat and leave in 20 minutes longer. Serve warm.

Raisin Roly Poly.—One cup seeded raisins, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons shortening, one teaspoon butter, one-half cup milk, two tablespoons sugar.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt into bowl, add shortening and rub in very lightly with tips of fingers, add milk enough to make dough to roll out one-quarter inch thick. Cover with raisins which have been stoned, thickened and sweetened with one tablespoon sugar; roll the same as jelly roll, place in baking pan which has been greased with a little butter, sprinkle top with sugar.

Grape Tapioca.—It sometimes happens that the grape jelly did not get stiff because the grapes were ripe instead of under ripe. (This is a good way to use it.)

One glass grape jelly, one-quarter cup granulated tapioca, sugar to taste, one-half teaspoon salt.

Put tapioca to boil in three cups of boiling water. When clear, add jelly, salt and if not sweet add enough sugar to taste. Beat until well mixed; pour into ice cream glasses or bowl. If cold serve with a teaspoon or marshmallow whip.

Chickpeas Chicken Soup.—One and one-half cups chickpeas. Cover with water and let simmer until tender.

Boil vegetables and season as you would any soup. Very good with a little onion, carrot, potato and vermicelli. This can hardly be detected from the genuine.

Meatless Baked Beans.—When baking beans, cook them until done on top of stove, then add sugar and salt to taste. Instead of side-meats or bacon, save meat cracklings and put them in a jar and keep in pantry in clean place; then add enough cracklings on top of beans until you think it sufficient for the meat taste.

Swimming Ideal Exercise for Girls.—Tell me whether you consider swimming in a swimming tank advisable for girls from sixteen to nineteen years of age, three times a week during the winter. (B. M.)

ANSWER.—Every girl should learn to swim. Swimming is an ideal exercise for girls or women of any age.

I would also a great many come, requesting description of an Irish moss which contains natural iodine and is useful for persons with simple goitre. Druggists seem to have no knowledge of this moss. Where can I obtain some? (G. E.)

ANSWER.—Irish moss is official in the United States Pharmacopoeia (General Standard for all druggists in the United States) under the name of Chondrus. Any druggist can supply carriage under the official title.

Symptom May Mean Anything.—I have every confidence in your teachings. One doctor told me that my trouble is nervous indigestion. Another said it is toxic condition. I feel nauseated after eating, bloated, constipated, I sleep very little, etc., lost weight, and cannot get out of breath when going up stairs, have dizzy spells and sometimes pain in the chest. Please tell me your opinion. (C. H. S.)

ANSWER.—These signs of weight and the shortness of breath on exertion are scarcely to be explained away as "nervous indigestion" or "toxic condition." Without an examination a doctor arrives at an opinion as to the nature of your trouble. It may be very serious, and it may not be serious. If you would follow my advice, it is to

"I never seed nuthin' more of him after he was hauled aboard. What become o' the lad?"

"Huh? Oh, Jose an' me carried him inter the for'cassel, an' shoved him inter a berth ter sleep off his liquor. That was the last I ever see er hear o' him fer 'bout six hours, when this yere feller must a woke up in the for'cassel sum crazy. He cum a chargin' out on deck, whoopin' like an Indian, wavin' a knife in his hand, intendin' fer ter raise h—l. Well, it happened that the fust feller he run up against was LeVere, who was cummin' forward fer sumthin', an' fer about a minute that was one h—l ov' a fight. It was so dark I couldn't tell what did happen, but it wus fists mostly, till the mate drove the poor devil, cussin' like mad, over agin the rail, an' then heaved him out inter the water long-side. I heard the feller splash when he struck, but he never let go."

"What did LeVere do?"

"Him? He didn't do nuthin'. Just stared down over the rail a bit, them cum back, rubbin' his hands. Never even asked who the feller wus. That alut' nuthin' kin skeer that black brute."

"He ain't got no human in him. It's h—l when English sailors hem her get ter take orders from a d—d nigger, an' be knocked 'round if they don't jump when he barks. He's goin' ter get a knife in his ribs sum day."

"Maybe he is; but yer better hold yer tongue, Tom. Sanchez don't stand fer that talk, an' he's back o' LeVere. Let's go in; them gaskets will hold all right now—cum' long."

I could now perceive now clearly the character I was destined to assume when once safely aboard the Namur. Such an assumption would involve but slight danger of discovery. It was as though a miracle had opened the way, revealed to me by the unconscious lips of these two half-drunk, gossiping sailors. The story told fitted my necessities exactly. Had I planned the circumstances myself nothing could have been better prearranged. No one on board had seen the missing man by daylight; he was believed to have sunk without a struggle. Yet no one knew positively that this was so, because no one cared. The death of the lad had simply been taken for granted when LeVere had failed to see his body rise again to the surface. Yet it was quite within the realm of possibility for the fellow to come up once more in that darkness, beyond LeVere's range of vision, and even to have remained afloat, buoyed up by clinging to the anchor hawser, until strong enough to return on board. At least there was no one aboard the Namur able to deny that this had been done.

Satisfied by this reasoning of being able to pass myself off as the dead man, I began slowly and cautiously to drag myself up the taut, however. I had chosen a fortunate moment for my effort; no one heeded the little noise I made, and, when I finally topped the rail and was able to look inboard it was to discover a deserted fore deck, with the watch all engaged at some task amidships. I crept down the forecastle ladder and worked my way aft beneath the black shadow of the port rail, until able thus to drift unnoticed into a group tailing onto a mainsail halyard. The fellow next to me, without releasing his grip, turned his head and stared, but without discerning my features.

"Whar did yer cum frum?" he growled, and I was instantly recognized Bill Haines. "Been sojerin', have yer? Well, now, lay to an' pull!"

Before I could attempt an answer a tall figure loomed up before us the same high-pitched voice I had noticed previously calling out sharply:

"There, that's enough, men! Now make fast. We can head the old girl out from here in a jiffy, if it really begins to blow. Jose, you stand by at the wheel, in case you're needed; some of the rest ship the captain bars, and remain near for a call."

"What are ye swingin' the yards fur, anyhow, LeVere?" asked Haines insolently. "Just fer exercise?"

"Because I am a sailor, Haines," he replied angrily. "Anyhow it is none of your business; I was left in command here. Those clouds don't look good to me; there is going to be a blow before morning."

Haines growled something and LeVere wheeled sharply about to go forward. This movement placed him face to face with me.

"What are you loafing here fer? Who are you?"

"Joe Gates, sir," I answered quickly, mouthing the first name which came to my lips.

"Gates—Joe Gates?" peering savagely into my face but unable to distinguish the features. "I never heard of anybody on board by that name. Who is the fellow, Haines?"

The Englishman gripped me by the sleeve to which I had just as his fingers touched the soaked cloth of my jacket he burst forth with an oath.

"He's wet enough to be the same lad you chucked overboard an hour ago. I believe he is. Say, mate, are you, the gay buck we hauled aboard drunk, and dumped into the for'cassel?"

"I dunno, sir," I answered dumbly, believing it best not to remember too much. "I couldn't even tell yer what yere is a bark." Haines laughed, already convinced of my identity, and considering it a good joke. Then he proceeded to tell me all about it.

LeVere broke in with a savage snarl. "What's all that? Do you mean Haines, that this is the same d—d scamp who tried to stick me?"

"No doubt of it. But he never knew what he was doin'—he was crazy as a loon. There's nuthin' fer yer ter fuss over now. Tell us about it, Gates—the bath must have sobered yer up."

I watched LeVere, but he remained motionless, a mere shadow.

"I suppose it must have been that, sir," I confessed respectfully, "if things happened as you say they did. I haven't any memory o' tryin' ter slash nobody. Leastwise I seemed ter know what I wuz about when I cum up. I don't remember how I got ther; first I knew I wuz slushin' round in the water, a tyin' ter keep afloat. I wuz so blame dark I couldn't see nuthin', but sunhow I got grip on a hawser, an' hung on till I got back enough strength fer olime on board. I knew this wain't my ship, so I just lay quiet awhile, figurin' out whar I wuz."

"Yer English?"

"Born in Bristol, sir, but I wuz workin' on the Caroline—she's a Colony schooner, in the fish trade. At sea since I wuz twelv. What's this yere bark—Dutch, ain't she?"

"Once upon a time; just now we are flyin' whatever flag comes handy. We ain't got no prejudice in flags."

"Is that a gun forward, covered with toupain?"

"Yes, an' yer might find another aft, if yer looked for it. Mo'r'n that, we know how ter use 'em. Now see here, Gates; that's no reason why we should beat about the bush—fact is we're sea rovers."

"Sea rovers—pirates, sir?"

"Bah! what's a name! We take what we want; it's our trade, that's all. No worse than many another. The question is, are yer goin' ter take a chance 'long with us? It's the only life, lad—plenty o' fun, the best o' liquor and pretty girls, with a share in all the swag."

"What is the name of this bark?"

"The Namur—out o' Rotterdam till we took her."

"Who's the captain?"

"Silva Sanchez."

"Gawd! Sanchez—not—not Black Sanchez?"

"That's him; so yer've heard of Black Sanchez?" Well, we're sailin' long with him, all right, mate, an' yer ought ter know what that means for a good man."

I hesitated, yet only long enough to leave the impression I sought to make on them both.

"Likely thar ain't no sailor but what has heard o' him," I said slowly. "It don't look like that was much choice, does it?"

LeVere appeared amused in his way, which was not a pleasant one.

"Oh, yes, friend, there is choice enough. Bill, here, had exactly the same choice when he first came—he, Bill? Remember how you signed on, after we took you off the Albatross? This is how it stands, Gates—either go forward quietly yerself, or the both of us will kick you there. That will be enough talk. Go on, now."

It was a curt dismissal, coupled with a plain threat, easy to understand. I obeyed the order, gladly enough, slinking away into the black shadows forward, realizing my good fortune, and seeking some spot where I could be alone.

The crew had disappeared, lying down no doubt in corners out of the wind. And this wind was certainly rising. I wondered that LeVere hung on so long in his perilous position, although, in spite of the increased strain, the anchor still clung firmly. It seemed to me that no hawser ever made could long withstand the terrific strain of our tugging as the struggling bark rose and fell in the grip of the sea. To him must have come the same conviction, for suddenly his high-pitched voice sang out from the poop:

"Stand by, forward, to lower the starboard anchor; movilely, men. Everything ready, Haines?"

"All clear, sir. Come on the jump, bullockies!"

"Then let go smartly! Watch that you don't get the line fouled. Aloft there! Anything ter sight, Cavere?"

From high up on the fore-top yard, the answer, blown by the wind, came down in broken English:

"Non, m'sieur; I see nottings."

I joined the watch forward. The number of men on deck was evidence of a large crew, there being many more than were necessary for the work to be done. Most of them appeared to be able seamen, and Haines drove them mercilessly, cursing them for lubbers, and twice kicking viciously at a stooping form. Then the great rope began to slip swiftly through the

REBUILDING HEALTH AFTER ANY ILLNESS

Getting Well Means Gaining Strength—A Wholesome Tonic

The getting-well stage of grip, pneumonia, or other illness is the most dangerous of all because the body, weakened by the disease, is wide open to attacks of other lurking germs.

That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the disease, but that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poisons in the system.

As a means toward good health after any illness Father John's Medicine builds up the body because it is all pure, wholesome nourishment and free from opium, morphine, chloroform or other poisonous drugs or alcohol. Father John's Medicine has had 60 years' success for colds and throat troubles, coughs and sore throats, and as a tonic and body builder.

PROVES THE TRUTH.

One of the best known professional men in New York (his name will be given on request) says:—"After an acute attack of typhoid pneumonia, I had a racking cough and lost 20 lbs. in eleven days. I never was so completely run down in my life. I was about to go to a hospital when I began to take Father John's Medicine, which after I had taken it faithfully, restored me to sound health. I regained flesh that I had lost and have since been as well as ever in my life. I have since learned that my physician has been in the habit of prescribing Father John's Medicine in such cases."

CARDS TRIM CAMP
GRANT QUINT 43-18
IN LISTLESS GAME

Bill James.

ALL-STARS DEFEATED
20 TO 18 IN BATTLE
AT BELOIT, SATURDAY

Fighting like demons, the "X" All-Stars went down to defeat, 20 to 18, at the hands of the Beloit Winnebagos in a hot battle at Beloit Y. M. C. A., Saturday night. It was the second defeat the Stars have received from the Galway City five. A third game may be played here soon.

With the teams tied 18-18 up to the last two minutes of play, interest was intense, and when Pat Dawson, Beloit forward, caged his only basket of the game, the Winnebago rooters went wild. Time was called shortly after Dawson's basket.

Ted Hager starred as usual, holding his man to two baskets while dropping in five himself. Babcock managed to slip away from his guard for three ringers while Fullerman found the hoop only once.

The Stars will play the Beloit "Outlaws" here Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. The Outlaws and Winnebagos stand tied on a series they are playing so this should be a hot game. The results of Saturday's game:

Beloit (20)      Janesville (18)
Dawson            Fullerman

RIDE ON CONCRETE

Dropping in baskets on an average of one every two minutes the Lakota Cardinals trampled all over the Camp Grant five, 43 to 18, in a listless basketball game at the armory Saturday night. Working like a wild bull, machine the Cards presented an unbeatible style of play and had everything their own way throughout the game. With an impenetrable defense and a fast and aggressive offense they outclassed the soldiers two to one. Camp Grant seemed lost without Deimore and failed to show the speed exhibited here two months ago when they won by a big score.

The only feature of the game was the sensational basket shooting of "Skinny" Phelps. The long lean Card forward found the hoop for a total of 10 baskets, 8 of them in the first frame. Hemmings, the giant soldier center had a little the better of it with Brumm and counted 6 times while the Card center was able to find the bounding board for only one tally. Mooney missed up seven times shots only twice during the game. Flaherty, the fast little Edgerton star, pounced all over his forward and at the same time dribbled through for four goals. Casually held his man to one basket and secured one himself.

Hemming who went in for Phelps in the last 8 minutes of play tore loose and scored three baskets in rapid succession.

The Cards opened up in the first few minutes of the game running up 8 points in less than five minutes. The half ended 23 to 10 with the local quintet on the longer end of the score. The Cards worked the short passing game to perfection and carried the ball down the floor, four men abreast. The combination proved invincible.

The cantonment bunch failed to show any pep and served to make the game uninteresting. Time was taken out often adding to the slowness of the contest.

If the Cards put up the same exhibition against the Fairies at Beloit Thursday night it is going to be some battle and the local five should win.

The results of Saturday's game:

Camp Grant (18)      Cardinals (43)
Roth, Lutes            Phelps, Hemmings
Johnson, rf.            Mooney
Hemmings, ic.            Brumm
Ravanel, lg.            Flaherty
Lutes, Stark            Casserly
Field Goals—Phelps 10, Flaherty 4, Hemmings 2, Hemming 3, Johnson 2, Mooney 2, Casserly, Brumm, Ravanel, Roth. Free Throws—Lutes 2, Mooney 1. Referee—Sennett.

METHODISTS LOSE
TO ST. MARY'S FIVE

Playing exceptionally fast ball in the last few minutes of play the St. Mary's church basketball quintet nosed out a victory over the Methodists at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening by the score of 16 to 13. McGinnis and McCue played the stellar roles for the Catholics, while Egbert carried the load of the game for the Methodists.

Dier playing with the Presbyterians was responsible for the lead over the Baptists. Dier was in every play and during the contest caged five baskets and the majority of the free throws. The final score of the contest was 21 to 16.

ROBERTSON WOULD PLAY WITH NATS

Davey Robertson.

According to word from Washington, Davey Robertson, Giant out fielder, has said he is through with big league baseball unless he is allowed to play with the Washington club. Robertson lives near Washington. Clark Griffith has taken up the matter with McGraw.

ALL-STARS DEFEATED
20 TO 18 IN BATTLE
AT BELOIT, SATURDAY

end defeat the Stars have received from the Galway City five. A third game may be played here soon.

With the teams tied 18-18 up to the last two minutes of play, interest was intense, and when Pat Dawson, Beloit forward, caged his only basket of the game, the Winnebago rooters went wild. Time was called shortly after Dawson's basket.

Ted Hager starred as usual, holding his man to two baskets while dropping in five himself. Babcock managed to slip away from his guard for three ringers while Fullerman found the hoop only once.

The Stars will play the Beloit "Outlaws" here Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. The Outlaws and Winnebagos stand tied on a series they are playing so this should be a hot game. The results of Saturday's game:

Beloit (20)      Janesville (18)
Dawson            Fullerman
